

Register Cybercast RSS

ciol.

HOME NEWS VERTICALS DEVELOPER ENTERPRISE SMB SEMICON CUSTOM SITES RESOURCE CENT

Prime News | Product News | Mergers & Acquisitions | News Makers | Executive Track | Corporate Results

HP India allies institutes for MS program

Ties up with Amrita University, Coimbatore, and the State University of New York at Buffalo for Monday, January 14, 2008

Email This Print This Comments RSS BOOKMARK

NEW DELHI, INDIA: HP India has signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with State University of New York at Buffalo (SUNY) and Amrita University, Coimbatore, India for a dual degree program for selected employees of HP in India.

The two-year program will focus on imparting skills in management, Information systems and business functions.

At the end of this program, the participants will receive a MS in the Management of IT Enabled Services from SUNY and a MS in Management of Information Systems from Amrita University.

"The program will help employees reach another milestone in their career. Employees will now be able implement management and business skills in everyday IT projects. Programs like this will help nurture and develop talent for the future," said PV Venkatachalam, head - Application Services, India Center.

© CyberMedia News

Rediff Q & A

Ask questions

Enter it here to get an: (600 characters)

Select a category

Games Review

- Halo 2 for PC – Sti
- Shadowrun for XB conceived game

Subscribe and Win